In 1890 John Riddoch had the foresight to plant the first grapevines in Coonawarra. He shared his vision for a world class wine region and subdivided his best fruit growing land to allow the establishment of Coonawarra as we know it today. His great-grandson, Peter Rymill, continues this fine wine tradition with Rymill Coonawarra, and now Peter's son John is building on this legacy. We have named our wine club 1890 in honour of John Riddoch's vision.
