

RYMILL
COONAWARRA

Cabernet Sauvignon - Vintage 2004

Absolute cabernet. Medium-bodied, curranty, swishily aromatic and then dry and tannic through the finish, a range of herbs, spices and fruits offered up along the way. A wine of great appeal. Dried herbs, tobacco, blackcurrant, cedar, perhaps even a touch of vanillin – this has all the goods. It's no blockbuster; it's just a great drink. I'll be reaching for some of this.

Campbell Mattinson

Publisher The Wine Front, The Red Album
August 2007

Rymill makes reliably elegant medium bodied cabernets that trade on consistency and balance to win praise. In 2004, bright ripe berry fruits are laced with judicious restraint, adding a spicy savoury edge. The palate is measured and gracious, running lines of fine tannin through blackcurrant fruit flavour, building to sweeter darker intensity towards the finish.

Nick Stock

Sumptuous
July 2007

A very aromatic medium-bodied wine. Its lifted floral notes are underpinned by spicy black plums and blackcurrants that follow through on the palate, with more juicy fruit and firm but ripe tannins. Allow this wine to breathe and it'll open up beautifully.

Jane Faulkner

The Age
May 2007

Another measured and balanced Cabernet from the Rymill stable, a winery that paces with a consistent and reliable range of wines, an essential part of their success as a medium sized player. Bright, ripe berry fruits are elegantly framed in cabernet's other signature characters, mint and herbs here and there; oak is gently nestled alongside fruit and offers an attractive savoury spicy edge. The palate is similarly uplifting, elegant fine tannins, some crisp acidity, even and ready to drink. Right in the zone with cassis fruit flavour and sweeter, darker berries on the finish, this is an easygoing cabernet that will reward medium term cellaring

Nick Stock

Adelaide Review
May 2007

Distinctly Coonawarra, Rymill Coonawarra Cabernet Sauvignon 2004 is a rich, fruity wine with hints of cloves and mint.

City Messenger

May 2007

Slightly developed colour. Aromas of plum, blackcurrant, tobacco leaf and earth with dusty vanilla oak. On the palate medium to full bodied with flavours of plum, cherry liqueur, coffee, black olive and pencil oak. Dry and savoury with fine ripe powdery tannins. Finishes dry with black olive and lightly gamey flavours. A wine of considerable finesse.

Gary Walsh

Winorama
January 2007