

RYMILL
COONAWARRA

Cabernet Sauvignon - Vintage 2005

Highly Recommended

A classy Coonawarra cabernet... The palate is elegant, long and dry – just oozing regionalality.

Coonawarra's winemakers have fancied the mid-2000s as good years and this is a lovely example of the area's dusty-oak-meets-intense-blackberry style, the start all earth and cedar, the palate with well-toned muscle yet warm and rich in fruit, drinkable now and with a strong future.

Dark and ripe with currants, Old Jamaica chocolate, dark cherry, mint and some earthy overtones. On the palate medium to full bodied, thick and smooth with beautiful fine earthy tannins and a good long finish. It's a lovely balanced wine with no intrusive alcohol and plenty of charm... there is no disputing the quality delivered.

The Rymill name is deeply etched in Coonawarra's history and its famous terra rossa strip, the rich red soil in which cabernet sauvignon vines thrive. This is a big, bold Coonawarra cabernet with upfront black berry and cherry fruit flavours, a touch of spice, underlying mintiness, chocolate characters, nicely balanced oak and full tannins. Drink it with lamb shanks.

Rich wine within a Coonawarra context... Well balanced even flow across the palate... more complexity should develop as it ages... plenty of life in this wine.

Here is a classic Coonawarra cabernet at a reasonable price. A complex mushroom/black olive-like nose introduces a palate with soft, flavoursome blackcurrant and plum notes. The finish is spicy and sweet.
